

This presentation examines distance education in the context of women in developing countries, with a focus on selected countries from South and Southeast Asia and Sub-Saharan Africa. The presentation includes:

- Overview of the readings about distance education for women in developing countries.
- Examination of the barriers/issues of access women face in education.
- Recommendations and strategies for the design and delivery of distance education to women in developing countries.
- Personal experiences of the team members relating to education and women in developing countries.